A new ship has been built in France. With a little competition Mr. Santos Dumont may be induced to moderate his extravagant price per fly.

The medical scientists who gathered recently in Berlin to attend the international congress for the prevention of consumption are able to report progress in the fight against "the great white plague," although no ground has been gained, it appears, during the past year in discovering a "cure" for the disease.

Great Britain is hardly more with the war before it is threatened with another, which, if not so serious, may prove embarrassing. Military operations in Somaliland, which is an inaccessible part of eastern Africa, will be carried on with difficulty, and the natives are led by able chiefs inspired by religious fanaticism.

Wellesley students are to take up farming as a branch of study, and an area of land has been set aside for tillage. The announced purpose is "to raise the humble occupation of the farmer to the dignity of a profession." It is quite effective, the dignity of some other humble occupations might be raised in the same manner.

Attorney General Knox's official report to the president affirming the validity and soundness of the titles of the Panama Canal company, to its canal property and franchises, which were offered to our government for $40,000,000, probably means the selection of the Panama route by the president, under the terms of the resolution adopted by congress.

It is now claimed that there are deposits of hard coal of fine quality in Colorado, New Mexico, Virginia and North Carolina. It is said that New Mexico and Colorado mines are sufficient to supply the western demand and that, as a result of the strike, they are likely to be developed to an extent which will relieve the west permanently from dependence on the Pennsylvania operators.

The latest statistics show that there are 17,292,230 pupils in the various schools of the country. This is a little more than one pupil to every four inhabitants of the United States. If any other nation can surpass that showing now is the time to claim the prize. And if many other nations do not see in these figures at least a partial explanation of American progress and power it will be surprising.

Prof. Koch has furnished some additional tests for scientific division by declaring in a public address at Berlin that boiling does not exterminate tubercular bacilli; that sterilizing milk impairs its quality; that butter infected with tubercular bacilli is not followed by infection, and that milk from a tuberculous cow is practically harmless. If these are scientific truths the lay public would rather not know them.

Over 20 years ago a writer of monumental but plausible lies in Thurloe Wood's Albany Evening Journal signed his letters "Laron Koobach." There was no such person. But the absolute falsity of the writer's statements was such that a "Koobach" became a synonym for any kind of lie, especially for the kind against personal character, suddenly issued against a man for his injury when he could not meet it in time to avert the harm.

First Assistant Postmaster General Wines has issued a circular letter to the postmasters of all rural free delivery post offices instructing them that postmasters and rural free delivery carriers are not permitted to condemn the letter boxes used by patrons. The order directs that they shall continue to serve boxes already erected until a regular inspection of such boxes can be made by the route inspectors and special agents, who will condemn the boxes found unsafe or which otherwise fail to meet the requirements.

The Philadelphia Enquirer says that previous to the war of 1812 nearly all the anthracite used in America was imported from Liverpool. In 1812 a few tons loaded down the Schuylkill river sold in Philadelphia at $25 per ton. There was very little demand for it, and it was not until the middle of the nineteenth century that anthracite coal came into general use in Philadelphia. Long after that time, indeed, the charcoal wagons made weekly trips over the river from Camden, many families continuing to use charcoal.

Loading and unloading are at the docks in Duluth, Minn. has become one of the triumphs of mechanical genius in these days. A steamer was recently unloaded by machinery at the rate of 1,000 tons an hour, and so quickly that no shovels were required. It is said that this one saving of time will increase the carrying capacity of the great lakes equal to the building of 50 large ships operated on the old plan. This is a curious and out-of-the-way way illustrating how our facilities for doing business constantly improve.

RESULTS OF THE ELECTION.

Latest Returns from the Various States Show That Republicans Will Control Next House—Complexion of the Senate.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The latest returns show that the republicans (including in this description the fusionists elected from the Pittsburgh-Allegheny districts in Pennsylvania) will control the next house by a vote of 205 republicans to 173 democrats, with one Tennessee and one California district remaining so much in doubt that the official returns will be needed to decide the result. The totals given are believed to be correct, although there are a few districts, such as two in Colorado and one in Minnesota, where the republican and democratic party managers respectively do not concede defeat, but the general result could not be effected even should their claims prove well founded. The table by states is as follows:

The next United States senate will be republican by at least 16 majority, against the present majority of 20. The present senate contains 34 republicans and 34 democrats, in a total of 68 seats, there being two vacancies from Delaware, where the republican legislature failed to elect. The terms of 20 senators expire with the present congress. There is also a vacancy from Michigan, caused by the death of Senator McMillan. Seven states have already elected senators to take their seats March 4, 1903. These are Maryland, Kentucky, Iowa, Ohio, Louisiana, Vermont and Georgia. Oregon has already elected a republican legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Simon. Twenty-five senators will be elected by legislatures chosen at Tuesday's election, as follows: Indiana, Delaware (two seats), New Hampshire, North Dakota, Nevada, South Dakota, Illinois, Pennsylvania, California, Connecticut, New York, North Carolina, Wisconsin, Kansas, Michigan, Idaho, Arkansas, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Utah, Colorado, Washington and Missouri. Of these the republicans have already carried 13. This insures 32 republicans and 24 democrats in the next senate.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Latest official figures from Illinois show Bush's plurality for treasurer to be $2,000, while Maier's plurality is $5,000. The estimated total vote on state candidates is 800,000. The house stands Republicans, 65; democrats, 65; public ownership, 1; prohibitionist, 1; republican majority, 23. Senate—Republicans, 20; democrats, 15; republican majority, 21; republican majority on joint ballot, 44. The congressional delegation stands: Republicans, 16; democrats, 9. Returns on the "public policy" questions submitted on the "little ballot"—initiative and referendum in local and state affairs, election of United States senators by the people—are very meager. In many counties those ballots have not yet been counted. It is certain, however, that there is an overwhelming majority, probably more than three-fourths majority for the affirmative on all three questions.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 7.—Unofficial returns by counties show the republican plurality in Iowa to be 74,372. Eleven counties were carried for the state ticket by the democrats—namely: Bremer, Carroll, Clinton, Crawford, Davis, Des Moines, Dubuque, Fremont, Iowa, Johnson and Lee. Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 6.—Related returns increase Gov. La Follette's plurality in the state. The latest estimate brings his figures up to 50,000. As near as can be figured out the next legislature will be made up about as follows: Assembly, 72 republicans and 25 democrats; senate, 31 republicans and two democrats.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—Latest returns indicate that the plurality of Gov. Bliss will run up to 26,975, his vote being 51,000, as against 16,719 for L. T. Durand, the democratic candidate for governor. The state legislature will have exactly the same complexion as its predecessor, one democrat among the 32 senators and ten democrats out of 100 members of the house of representatives.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 7.—Official and unofficial returns thus far show that the republican plurality in the state will be close to 30,000. The republicans expect to have 100 members of the 150 in the general assembly. The Indiana delegation in congress will be unchanged politically, consisting of nine republicans and four democrats.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from 56 of the 59 Ohio counties, according to Chairman Dick, of the republican state committee, show a republican plurality for state candidates of 90,507. Although 17 counties have not returned their total vote it is estimated as close to 500,000.

New York, Nov. 6.—Gov. R. B. Odell's majority over Bird S. Coler, the democratic nominee for governor, is 12,857, according to reports made by the county clerks to Albany. The reports to the Herald show a plurality of 11,000. Gov. Odell carried all the counties with the exception of Hamilton, Kings, New York, Queens, Richmond, Rockland and Schoharie. The New York congressional delegation in the next house will be composed of 20 republicans and 17 democrats. There is still a possibility that Pugsley (dem.) may defeat Odell (rep.) in the Westchester district.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Practically complete returns from the state indicate a plurality for Samuel W. Pennypacker (rep.) for governor, of about 125,000. Of the 32 congressmen elected 25 are republicans and four democrats, the latter being George F. Howell, Tenth district; Marcus C. H. Kline, Thirteenth district; Charles H. Dickerman, Sixteenth district, and Joseph H. Shull, Twenty-sixth district. The incoming house of representatives will be made up of 157 republicans and 47 democrats, and the senate will contain 29 republicans and 11 democrats. On joint ballot 125 votes are required to elect a United States senator, and Dolores Penrose claims to have elected more than enough members pledged to him to insure his reelection to the senate in January next.

Other Western States.

Missouri elected state officials. Returns show the election of 15 democratic congressmen and 17 republican congressmen. The republican plurality for governor is about 25,000. The republicans have elected 25 members of congress and over 9 members of the legislature.

Nebraska reports from 21 out of 32 counties in the state give the republican congressional ticket a plurality of 10,000. The remaining counties will increase this plurality. The republican plurality for governor is about 10,000. The republicans have elected 25 members of congress and over 9 members of the legislature.

Idaho reports from 21 out of 32 counties in the state give the republican congressional ticket a plurality of 10,000. The remaining counties will increase this plurality. The republican plurality for governor is about 10,000. The republicans have elected 25 members of congress and over 9 members of the legislature.

KAISER IN ENGLAND.

The German Monarch Arrives on British Soil to Visit His Uncle, King Edward.

London, Nov. 10.—Emperor William was given a cordial reception on his arrival in England Saturday, a heavy downpour of rain failing to dampen the enthusiasm of the thousands who turned out to greet the imperial visitor. He reviewed at Shoreham camp the First Royal dragoons, of which regiment he is honorary colonel in chief, and afterward was welcomed at Sandringham by representatives of the royal family and leading British statesmen.

The German imperial yacht Hohenzollern, with the emperor on board, accompanied by the sea-going German cruisers and a flotilla of British torpedo boats, reached Port Victoria at eight o'clock in the morning. The arrival of the visitors was made the occasion of an imposing naval display. All the warships of the Channel fleet, dressed, their crews manned the decks and the usual salutes were given in honor of the distinguished guests.

The emperor wore the undress uniform of a British admiral. The German ambassador, Count Koltz-Metternich, soon joined his chief, who subsequently received the British court officials, sent to attend him and other members of the German embassy. After breakfast Emperor William landed, accompanied by the Hohenzollern command ship and cheering lustily, and the British warships firing another salute as the emperor boarded a train for Dover, on his way to Shoreham camp. Usual precautions were taken by the railroad officials. All traffic was stopped along the route to Dover half an hour before the imperial special train was due. Large British and German detective staffs were on duty, and the junctions and the approaches to the stations were closely watched and cleared of spectators during the passage of the train. It was raining heavily when Emperor William left the train at Dover, where, mounted on one of his own chargers, he rode to Shoreham camp, accompanied by Lord Roberts and a brilliant staff.

The emperor arrived at the review ground at the head of the cavalcade with Lord Roberts at his side, and reviewed some 600 men of his regiment. The inspection lasted only ten minutes, the emperor passing down the line while torrents of rain were falling and in the teeth of a gale of wind. He, however, keenly scrutinized the officers, men and horses. He then proceeded to the saluting base. After the march past the dragons formed a hollow square and Emperor William briefly addressed the regiment.

Emperor William and the officers then repaired to the messroom of the regiment, where they had lunch. Lord Basingthorpe, who had been with the emperor since he landed, and the latter replied briefly. Emperor William concluded with calling for cheers for the regiment, and presented decorations to Lord Basing and other officers.

After the luncheon the emperor was driven in a closed carriage to the Shoreham station and took a train for Worthington. There at six p. m. he was met by King Edward, and the two rulers drove to Sandringham.

There is every reason to believe that the meeting of the three monarchs—King Edward, the emperor of Germany and King Carlos of Portugal, who is also to be here—will result in important international understandings, especially concerning South Africa, and more particularly Delagoa Bay, which is so vitally important to Great Britain as an outlet for her newly acquired colonies.

Sandringham, Nov. 10.—The weather here Sunday was perfect and mild, and the bright sunshine brought crowds of visitors to Sandringham on the chance of seeing Emperor William. The approaches to the church were lined with spectators. Queen Alexandra, the prince of Wales and Mrs. Chamberlain arrived at the church together. Half an hour later King Edward, Emperor William, Prime Minister Balfour, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and other distinguished persons arrived and stood chatting outside. King Edward talked with Mr. Chamberlain for a few minutes, then the emperor of Germany approached, and for a quarter of an hour the emperor and Mr. Chamberlain stood apart and conversed earnestly. The service had begun and the anthem had been reached before the royal party entered the church, the king taking the emperor's arm. The bishop of Ripon presided on the possibility of the disappearance of race distinctions and the attaining of the grand brotherhood of man. He referred to King Edward's recovery from his illness to the visit of his king's monarch and to the ties which have long united Germany and Great Britain.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 10.—Henry Watterson predicts a victory ahead if old leaders are shelved. Bryan he regards as sufficiently dead, and he comes out as favoring Arthur Pue Gorman, of Maryland, for president.

ACCUSED BY A NEGRO.

Alan Mason Again Connected with the Boston "Sluggers."

Boston, Nov. 10.—George O. L. Perry, a negro, aged 15 years, of Craig street, Cambridgeport, was arrested late Saturday night in connection with the "Jack the Sluggers" cases, and his assertions since his arrest are of the most startling nature. The arrest of Perry was made on the charge of pawing the watches taken from Miss Agnes McElhee and Miss Clara A. Morton, the two victims of the "sluggers" whose injuries proved fatal. At first Perry declared he knew nothing of the watches, but later admitted he pawed both and then told a rambling story of how he obtained them. The negro said that Alan G. Mason, who is now under arrest on the charge of murdering Miss Morton, gave him both watches to pawn, that he received $1 for the McElhee watch, of which he gave Mason 75 cents, and for the Morton watch, pawned last Monday, he received $4, of which he was to pay Mason his share. Mason was arrested Tuesday morning, and has not yet been paid any part of the $4, according to Perry. Perry further declares he has known Mason more than a year, but insists that he has no knowledge of where Mason got the watches. He says when he asked Mason this question the latter replied: "Never mind about that."

Perry's statement is a long one, and was taken down by a stenographer as he made it. He has been in the police "sweat box" since his arrest, but all efforts to get anything from him connecting Mason more closely with the cases than the alleged possession of the watches have failed.

On Sunday Chief Ryan and Officer Argy, of Belmont, talked with Perry, and later State Officers New, Dunham, Dexter and others took Perry to the jail. The callers were shown into the room where Mason and six others were in line. Perry walked straight up to Mason, who was second in position, and, pointing his finger at him, said: "This is the man who gave me the watches to pawn."

Big Beast Strangled.

Usually and Dangerous Elephant Killed on Shipboard in a Very Novel Manner.

New York, Nov. 10.—Mandarin, an elephant of the Barnum & Bailey circus, was executed by strangulation Saturday night in his cage on the main deck of the steamship Minneapolis, of the Atlantic Transport line. A two-inch hawser was placed in a loop around Mandarin's neck and each end of the hawser was fastened to the drum of a "wrench" engine. The engines were started at the same time and ran slowly at first, until the hawser was taut about the animal's neck, when the speed was increased and the hawser quickly tightened. In a minute and a half the hind legs sank to the floor of the cage and the elephant was unconscious. Just eight minutes after the engines had been started Mandarin was pronounced dead.

The cage containing the body was then hoisted from the ship by a crane and landed on a barge, in which it was towed about 20 miles out to sea and sunk, the cage being weighted with about 5,000 pounds of old railroad iron. Mandarin was the largest elephant in captivity at the time of his death, and had been with the Barnum & Bailey circus for 24 years. He weighed five tons and stood nine feet ten inches high. The elephant had recently become unmanageable, rendering his destruction necessary.

Slain by His Wife.

Jealous New York Farmer Assaults His Spouse and is Shot Dead.

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Enosh Hink shot and killed her husband at their home, about three miles above Fort Dickinson, Sunday morning about 4 o'clock. Hink was 33 years old, his wife is 40. They have been married 23 years. For some time Hink has been jealous of a nephew, Frank Hink, who has boarded at the Hink home. Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Hink and Frank Hink came to Binghamton. Mrs. Hink and Frank Hink drove home alone. About 2 o'clock Sunday morning Hink, who had arrived home some time previously in an intoxicated condition, quarreled with his wife and made an assault upon her. She ran out of doors in her night dress, barefoot and, pursued by her husband, ran down the road. He was armed with a clasp-knife. Finally in the darkness Mrs. Hink eluded him, and going back to the house barricaded her bedroom. Hink came back, and when he tried to open the door to renew the assault, the woman took up a shotgun and pointed it at her husband. It was discharged, the charge entering Hink's breast just above the heart. He died in a few minutes. It is not thought that Mrs. Hink will be arrested. The coroner says that he looks on it as a case of justifiable homicide.

Three Drowned.

ENGLAND'S PRESENT TROUBLES IN SOMALILAND

SOMETHING OF THE PEOPLE AND THE COUNTRY IN WHICH BRITISH TROOPS ARE SAID TO HAVE SUFFERED DEFEAT.

THE news that the British troops in Somaliland, in an expedition against the natives down around the Abyssinian and Italian-Somaliland frontiers, have met with severe reverses at the hands of the mad mullahs, whether it shall prove true or false, has caused a great flurry of excitement and serves to call attention to one of the most interesting bits of British Africa. According to the reports, the natives were out in a force exceeding 10,000 men, many of them mounted, and it was feared that their success in cutting off the expedition would arouse the entire Dolbahanta and Ogaden territories, and plunge Great Britain into another of her "little wars."

Concerning the nature of the warlike natives who inhabit the Abyssinian frontier—and who, tradition says, are remote descendants of Solomon and the queen of Sheba—those who have read Charles Lamb's works already have a lasting notion. His characterization of them is found in the first sentence of the Dissertation Upon Rosset Pig: "Mankind, says a Chinese manuscript, which my friend N— was obliging enough to read and explain to me, for the first quarter of a century at their meat raw, biting or clawing it from the living animal, just as they do in Abyssinia to this day."

While Britain is in little danger of entering into a war with Abyssinia, many of her present alleged foes belong to Abyssinian territory. They are a mixed savage horde in a wild and dangerous country, and the boundary lines that distinguish British Somaliland from Italian Somaliland and these from Abyssinia proper are plainly marked only on paper, and on the latest maps at that. Of the tribes which reach in a chain through this region, many of them are said to be welded into a strong confederation.

The Somalis have been described as a half-caste race of Gallas (a strong, well built and ferocious nomadic people, who once inhabited all the territory from Abyssinia to Mombasa) and the South Arabians, and certain it is that in many ways they are the finest type of native in Africa. The Gallas themselves, though negroes, are as a race Caucasian, this being evidenced by the straight nose, pointed chin and intellectual forehead. The Somalis are an amiable people, who become almost demons when aroused, but who in peace are mild and trusting. They are chiefly Mohammedans, and cling to the most fanatical forms of that worship mixed with the lesser forms of weird fetishism, their dances and ceremonies being often repellent and hideous. Some of the tribes practice the circumcising and other customs revealing a Jewish ancestry. In war the Somali use a large spear as the principal weapon, and secondarily a small throwing javelin. He carries a small shield of leather and for lesser weapons has the dagger and small elb. Not infrequently the warriors fight on horseback, and they are most excellent horsemen.

Somaliland is said to have been explored to some extent during the reign of the Ptolemies in Egypt, but modern exploration of the country dates from 1824, when Richard Francis Burton, an officer in the Indian army, and John Hanning Speke, a companion, undertook a journey to the holy places of the Hedjaz. For 20 years thereafter little progress was made in the exploration of Somaliland, although later expeditions, one of them under these same explorers, discovered the great lake of Victoria Nyanza and Albert Nyanza, to the southward, and the Abyssinian sources of the Nile to the north. In the 1870s, however, three parties—one English, one Italian, and one French—penetrated Somaliland, making important discoveries. Then followed numerous other expeditions to the interior, the present Col. (then Capt. Seayee) heading some of them. This Somaliland may be regarded as a region of comparatively recent exploration and settlement.

In 1857 France had purchased of a native chief the Bay of Obok—close to the Straits of Bab el Mandeb. But this she did not effectively occupy until 1882, after Britain had overthrown the Egyptian Sudan empire. In fact, it is from the fall of this empire that the Somaliland protectorates may be said to have taken form. All before that had been rather vague claims to territory of undefined extent, by France, Great Britain and Italy.

After the establishment of an effective protectorate in Egypt Britain began to see the advantage of coming to a definite decision concerning a strip of territory on the Somali coast as a commercial base. In 1884, therefore, Great Britain announced a protectorate over some 63,000 square miles of territory and fortified the ports of Zeyla, Bulhar and Berbera with garrisons of Indian troops under British officers.

In 1870 Italy had begun to send her expeditions into Somaliland and Abyssinia in much the same systematic way of the other powers except that Italy probably had the best notion of the value of the country as a colonial possession and also had the greatest designs upon it. To further her plans—which contemplated the establishment of a protectorate over Abyssinia, she purchased a coaling station at Assab bay, on the Red sea. When Egypt fell, the Italians rapidly extended their occupation north and south from this station. As a result of this expansion the Italians secured a strip which is now known as Eritrea. This was chiefly valuable as the approach to Abyssinia—a matter which the Abyssinians fully appreciated, for they soon rose in rebellion over the implied insult. A war seemed imminent, but the conflict was temporarily prevented by Great Britain, which, with Germany, officially recognized the Italian protectorate over Abyssinia. But this compact the Russians and French refused to acknowledge or sustain. The Abyssinians chafed under this condition of affairs until 1896, when they again rose against the Italians, whose army they met and so severely defeated that all idea of an Italian protectorate was abandoned, and the boundaries of the Italian protectorate was abandoned.

There will be nothing in the message starting of the abandonment of the principles of protection, but this will not prevent him from recommending the reduction, by direct enactment or by reciprocal agreements with foreign nations, of rates of duty which may no longer be needed for purposes of protection. It has been announced by a member of the cabinet that the message will favor such reductions, and that it will also urge the creation of a permanent commission which can at all times give expert consideration to the needs of the government and of the varying interests, thus enabling it to make recommendations to congress which will save the committees charged with the preparation of revenue laws a good deal of labor and insure a more intelligent framing of such laws.

Close ally to the question of revenue is the subject of currency and banking reform. Secretary Shaw is heartily in favor of the establishment of a system of asset banking which would give greater flexibility to the national bank currency of the country, and would enable the banks themselves to tide over many periods of monetary stringency, in which they must now appeal to the treasury for help. If the president does not specifically recommend such legislation in his message he probably will call the attention of congress to the recommendations of the secretary of the treasury.

To Ask Increase in Navy.

The message will endorse the recommendations which Secretary Moody will make in his annual report for the increase and improvement of the navy. President Roosevelt has never lost an opportunity to insist that the United States should have the best navy in the world in proportion to its size. His recommendations will not only look to continuing the policy of building fighting ships of the highest efficiency and the provision of officers and men to man them, but will also refer to the necessity of thorough training of officers and men, and to have the value to the service of maneuvers such as those which were carried on off the coast of New England last summer and those which are about to begin under the direction of Admiral Dewey in the Caribbean sea.

Donkhobers Canceled.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—After one of the most exciting incidents in the history of the northwest, the Donkhobers have been forever excommunicated, loaded in cars like cattle, and were guarded by a large detachment of mounted police, who were kept busy preventing the guarded Russians from throwing themselves from the car windows. A military special of ten coaches left here with the army at ten o'clock and unloaded at Yorkton early today. The mounted police will drive the Donkhobers to their northern villages, ending perhaps the most remarkable experience in Canadian history.

Wanted for Murder.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—Superintendent E. F. Egan, of the Great Northern railroad, who went hunting at Belton, Mont., on Tuesday, has disappeared. Officials of the Great Northern railroad are alarmed, and President James J. Hill has directed that 100 men be sent into the adjoining country to search for the missing man. Superintendent Egan's private car was stricken at Belton Tuesday afternoon. With him was a party of five friends. They started out to hunt big game. The country abounds in bear and mountain lions, and it is feared he may have been overcome by one or more of these beasts.

A Telegram from Kalispell, received by Great Northern officials, says that it is not improbable that Superintendent Egan encountered the bandit who held up the Great Northern train near Drummond last week and robbed it of several thousand dollars, and that the robber, thinking a posse was after him, may have killed the superintendent.

The 50 men sent out Thursday morning returned Friday afternoon reporting that they had obtained no trace of the missing man. Thereupon President Hill ordered out all the available men on the Kalispell division to hunt for him.

A heavy snowstorm set in after the party started on the hunt, obliterating all trails, and for this reason no trace of Egan can be found. His private car is still standing on the sidetrack at Belton, where his five guests are awaiting tidings of the lost man. At Great Northern headquarters in St. Paul it is believed he has perished.

Another party left Columbia Falls Sunday morning for Hungry Horse creek and will be out several days. It is now almost impossible to get through the country, except on snow shoes and parties who have gone into the South Fork country have been compelled to use them. The return of two parties now out is anxiously awaited. One went up to the cabin on Pyramid peak and another into the South Fork country. It will be at least three days before they can make their report. Dr. Houston spent part of the day here, returning to Belton Sunday night. He has given up all hope of Egan being alive.

SLEEPING GIRL DEAD.

Nellie Corcoran, Who Puzzled New York Doctors, Dies After Twenty Days in Coma.

New York, Nov. 10.—Nellie Corcoran, who for 20 days lay in a mysterious state of coma in St. Vincent's hospital, died early Saturday. Her case was an extremely puzzling one to medical practitioners throughout the city. The girl fell into her state of unconsciousness October 15 at the house where she was employed as a servant. At the hospital where she was taken heroic efforts to determine the cause of her condition met with little success.

Hundreds of physicians examined her and every known method was tried to awaken her, but with little success. Two or three times she was aroused and spoke a few words, saying she was sleepy, and again became unconscious.

Electricity was applied and in hand doses, but ineffectively. Neurologists and pathologists tried to diagnose the girl's condition, but could not. Specialists of nearly every medical field were called in, but they arrived at no conclusions as to the cause of the coma or its proper diagnosis.

It was even suggested that some one had hypnotized her, and efforts to throw off such a spell were made, but to no purpose. Her temperature increased rapidly, she became emaciated and finally stopped breathing after having slept continuously 20 days.

An autopsy will be performed by one of the city's leading physicians in an effort to solve the mysterious cause of the girl's death.

Illegally Packed Cigarettes Are Confiscated in Chicago by the Government Officials.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Confiscation of illegally packed cigarettes, most of which are trust-made goods, is being made in Chicago by agents of the internal revenue department under instructions from Washington. Dealers and distributors of such goods are stamped. Over 1,000,000 "paper pipes" have already been impounded by A. L. Davis, of Ohio, and H. N. Schlosser, a deputy in the office of Henry L. Hertz, collector of internal revenue, and Saturday additional quantities were seized.

The work will occupy the attention of the revenue agents for about a month and meantime they will collect evidence upon which to base prosecutions in New York and other places. While tobacco depots are being searched in Chicago other revenue agents are working elsewhere throughout the country.

Electricity was applied and in hand doses, but ineffectively. Neurologists and pathologists tried to diagnose the girl's condition, but could not. Specialists of nearly every medical field were called in, but they arrived at no conclusions as to the cause of the coma or its proper diagnosis.

It was even suggested that some one had hypnotized her, and efforts to throw off such a spell were made, but to no purpose. Her temperature increased rapidly, she became emaciated and finally stopped breathing after having slept continuously 20 days.

An autopsy will be performed by one of the city's leading physicians in an effort to solve the mysterious cause of the girl's death.

As high as six dollars per cord is asked for dry hardwood. But even at that how much cheaper is it than coal?

H. L. Piker, who held the position of window trimmer at Crusee's for some time, but who is now located at Ashland, will be married at Eau Claire Tuesday, Nov. 25. It is understood that the bride's name is Miss Iona Harek. Mr. Piker made a number of friends during his stay here and all unite in extending best wishes.

The trimmed window on the ladies side of Crusee's Department store attracted considerable attention Tuesday evening if it was a rainy day. The window contained a well executed representation of a church organ and was trimmed by the Misses Nettie LaPra and Margaret Plankett. It is quite likely that the young ladies, both of whom are employed as sales ladies in the store, will continue work along the line of window decorating.

Dannie Griffin's case at the court house will not be called until next week and the young man was obliged to return to his work at Oshkosh Tuesday. He is employed in a grass twine factory there as timekeeper and is getting along fairly well considering the fact that he has no fingers on his right hand.

Robert Hawthorne of Woodbury is over this week to attend court, his case being the seventh one on the criminal calendar. Hawthorne was badly stabbed by a man named John Berker who was employed in the camps of the Geo. E. Wood Lumber Co. The cutting was done at Woodbury and was so serious that Hawthorne's life hung in the balance for several days.

George Fenzel and family are now comfortably located in the Onoda House which was vacated recently by Gus. Horn. The rooms have all been neatly papered and refurnished after the appearance of the late proprietor. Already a liberal share of patronage has been afforded the hotel and under the new management of Mr. Fenzel the same will no doubt prove a successful and paying venture.

The deer season opened Monday and it is being well patronized. Seven hundred licenses have been issued by County Clerk Carr and hundreds are within the country hunting deer who come from other counties or from other states. Locally the interest is equal to that of previous years, and a great many are out in the woods this week. The game is plentiful and some splendid hunters' records will no doubt be made.

John O'Brien departed Tuesday morning over the "Soo" line for a visit to his old home in Holyoke, Mass. He expects to remain in the East for some time, perhaps permanently. Mr. O'Brien has become of this county's most prosperous farmers for several years past and his departure will be felt by all who claim his acquaintance. His property in the near vicinity of the Fair grounds has been rented to reliable parties who will occupy the same.

The first quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was held Monday evening, the Rev. J. E. Farmer, D. D., Presiding Elder of Appleton district, officiating. Killed at Duluth.

While unloading logs at Duluth last Monday Peter O'Malley, an old time woodsman and lumberman, was struck by a falling timber and instantly killed. The remains of the unfortunate man were brought to this city Tuesday, accompanied by a number of friends. The funeral occurred yesterday morning at St. Mary's Catholic church, Rev. Fr. Schmitt officiating. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery. Mr. O'Malley was about forty-eight years of age and has made this section his headquarters for several years. He has relatives in this city and is well known.

Harris Was a Great Case.

The Supreme Court decisions which have been handed down this week contain an affirmation of judgment in the somewhat celebrated Wunderlich insurance case. The Wunderlich owned a mill near Antigo which burned. The eight or nine insurance companies holding thousands of dollars on the property refused to pay, claiming fraud. Inasmuch as the amount of lumber of logs on hand was concerned. The case has been tried three times. At the first trial verdict against the insurance companies was secured. This was set aside by the Supreme Court and at the second trial a disagreement of the jury resulted. The third trial resulted in another verdict for the plaintiffs and the Supreme Court has now confirmed that, probably settling the case forever. It was an important one, more from the fact that the questions at stake were of widespread interest rather than from the amount of money involved, which was about twenty thousand dollars. John Barnes of this city was the attorney for plaintiffs and the victory from a legal standpoint, was a very great one for him.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

The first concert in the new lecture course series was given at the Congregational church last Friday evening. The feature was the Chicago orchestra of Len Salisbury which featured Abby Rose Wood a soprano soloist of ability. The concert was very enjoyable and one of the best it has been the privilege of a Rhinelander audience to listen to. The singing of Miss Wood was infinitely pleasing to the large crowd in the church, her full rounded tones and perfect pronunciation together with the orchestra accompaniment making each number she sang enjoyable in the full sense of the term.

An entirely new farce comedy "A Foxey Boy" will be presented at the opera house on Friday evening, Nov. 14. The new play is a laughing hit and there is a plot that is really good. It tells of a father turning into his own son, and his son turning into his own father. Complication after complication arises in such a manner as to bring about untold mistakes and bits of folly.

"Roméo and Juliet" was presented at the opera house Saturday evening by Simmelle's Company and although the attendance was not large the play was produced in a first-class manner and kept the attention of the spectators centered on the different characters throughout. The leading roles were taken by Edward D'Oize and Miss Mamie Lorimer and both carried their parts through creditably. Their support was good and the stage settings fine. The company was deserving of a much larger house.

The most thrilling melodrama of Missouri life which has yet been submitted to the approval of the public is "Jose James, the Bandit King," which is now in its initial tour under the direction of Jack Hoffer. In addition to the artistic excellence of the play itself, an especially elaborate mounting has been supplied at great expense. At the Grand Opera house next Tuesday evening, November 15, tickets on sale at Brownson's book store.

A TIRED MUSICIAN.

How Strauss Once Sunk a Russian Court Dignitary.

When Johann Strauss took his orchestra to Russia, he had some unusual experiences not generally recounted to those who live outside an autocratic government.

One day he received the czar's commands to play before her at her summer resort and was told on arriving there that he would have to rehearse his programme three times before the performance. He begged to know the reason for that, but no explanation was given him. These were her majesty's orders, and he could only comply. Still, his astonishment grew when he saw during the three rehearsals an empty court carriage drawn by a pair of horses slowly going back and forth in front of his orchestra.

Throughout the final performance the mysterious act was explained. The empress, having a sharp attack of gout, was obliged to recline in the carriage, her foot on a cushion, while the concert took place, and the object of rehearsal had been to accustom the horses to a full string band lest they should take fright and bolt with her. At the end of the performance an exalted dignitary of the court bade

There is no better flour made in the country than B14 JO. A trial will convince you of its worth.

J. N. WHITE

The Castillians (and thence come the finest of fine Olives) when they began to preserve Olives for eating purposes, were aware that they had found the best process of curing the luscious morsel—and as the Queen would have none other, the name "QUEEN OLIVE" was selected to designate the finest of all. And of RICHELIEU QUEEN OLIVES Castillian grown and cured, it can be truly said, that they are preserved to the Queen's taste [the Queen of America's homes]. Solid, crisp, small pits, will keep in any climate. Just enough oil left to give it that exquisite RICHELIEU flavor.

Medium Size Bottles 25 cents each. Larger Size Bottles 50 cents each.
